Out & Back with Alison Mariella Désir: Wellness Special

SAT Jul 8 | 6:30p

The Pacific Northwest is an abundant playground. With trails, parks and miles of coastline, the opportunities for a nature outing are endless. It's well known that spending time outdoors is a great way to boost mood, relieve anxiety and improve overall wellness. But for many people of color, the outdoors can feel unattainable or even frightening. Thanks to a host of individuals and groups throughout the PNW, the relationship between BIPOC and the outdoors is changing. Join Alison Mariella Désir as she takes a closer look at the ways in which the outdoors can bring joy for Black and Indigenous people and people of color. Revisit experiences from the series' first season as we celebrate how an outdoor connection impacts mental health and wellness.

ICONIC AMERICA

— OUR SYMBOLS AND STORIES — WITH DAVID RUBENSTEIN

Two patriotic symbols uncovered this July! TUE Jul 11 & 18 | 10p

On July 11, "The Statue of Liberty" surveys the evolving meaning this symbol has for a "nation of immigrants" and how it embodies values and conflicts, from abolition and women's suffrage to the treatment of refugees. Then, on July 18, "The American Bald Eagle" explores how the eagle soared to its vaunted perch in American iconography, a symbol not only of patriotism but also of environmental activism and Native American traditions.
