ASAHEL: The Curtis Collection

SUN JUL 7 | 7:30p

The Washington State Historical Society is digitizing 60,000 images by renowned photographer Asahel Curtis, whose work from the 1890s to 1940s captured the Pacific Northwest's transformation. Curtis documented logging, railroads and growth, advocating for industry while also fighting to preserve wilderness areas such as Mount Rainier. His vast archive includes news photos, landscapes and portraits across all walks of life. The digitization reveals fascinating stories behind striking images capturing a hotel illuminated for Teddy Roosevelt's 1903 visit, a school's birdhouse curriculum and more. Narrated by Knute Berger of Mossback's Northwest.
